

Discover the Madison College Research Mindset Learning Community

Matters
Shared Mailbox -

Published 10/24/2023

Are you a research enthusiast or aspiring to learn more about research?

Madison College has a busy research community, and each month, we invite you to join the Research Mindset Learning Community to learn more about it.

The Research Mindset Learning Community provides you with an opportunity to:

- Learn about ongoing Madison College research
- Understand the basics of research processes
- Connect with a vibrant community of researchers
- Learn about research projects and their outcomes
- Get inspired to engage in your own research
- Find research opportunities and grants
- Brainstorm exciting research topics
- Connect with others who are working on articles to submit to peer-reviewed journals

Last month, faculty discussed how their research supports student success in Anatomy and Physiology. This month, we're delving into initiatives to improve access and success in the Education pre-major learned through an Action Research project.

Join us on Thursday, Oct. 26 from 12-1:30 p.m. in person in Truax E3820 or virtually via Teams. And, mark your calendar for the same time and place on Thursday, Nov. 30.

MADISON COLLEGE

Institute for Equity &
Transformational Change

Questions?

Turner, Michele
Early Childhood Education Instructor