

IETC's Faculty Partners win Innovation of the Year award

Matters
Shared Mailbox -

Published 10/24/2023

The Institute for Equity & Transformational Change (IETC) was named an Innovation of the Year award-winner for inclusive excellence in curriculum by the League for Innovation in the Community College.

Specifically, Madison College was highlighted for implementing inclusive excellence and anti-racist practices within Academic Affairs. Last week, IETC presented to the League of Innovations in the Community College Board to share their work.

Congratulations to the following employees involved:

- Chevon Bowen, Coordinator, Intersectional Education and Outreach
- Jody Cooper, Faculty, Legal Studies and Paralegal
- Cherif Correa, Faculty, English
- Kari Daggs, Faculty, Information Technology
- Phil Gasper, Faculty, Center for Excellence in Teaching and Learning
- Kate Grovergrys, Faculty, Center for Excellence in Teaching and Learning
- Loise Kirore, Faculty, Nursing
- Robin Nickel, Faculty, Center for Excellence in Teaching and Learning
- Karen Romanowski, Faculty, Health Sciences
- Bethany Sansing-Helton, Faculty, Mathematics
- Dee Soles, Faculty, Sociology
- Marco Torrez-Miranda, Faculty Director, Institute for Equity and Transformational Change
- Michele Turner, Faculty, Early Childhood Education
- Paula Waite, Faculty, Information Technology

Meet the Faculty Partners Team

What do Faculty Partners do?

This group was initially formed in spring 2021 through a call for applications to serve part of the inaugural team to advance equity and inclusion college strategies within Academic Affairs. Since then, the team has had new members through applications and folks expressing interest.

Questions?

Torrez-Miranda, Marco
Non-Instructional Instructor